By Robin Hanbury-Tenison

The Long Riders' Guild Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 236 pages. Dimensions: 8.8in. x 6.1in. x 0.6in. This is the story of Robin and Louella Hanbury-Tenison's exploration of New Zealand on horseback in 1988. They rode alone together through what they describe as some of the most dramatic and exciting country we have ever seen. For two or three days at a time, Robin and Louella would map read their way by compass across some of the largest farms in the world, at one moment crossing snowy passes of over 6,000 feet, at the next basking in the dry summer heat of the valley floors. At night they would shelter from the rain and wind in primitive shepherd's huts, brewing up soup and tea to keep themselves warm. But while they found scenery so spectacular it more than justified the description of New Zealand as the most beautiful country in the world, they found, too, a country in crisis. New Zealanders are striving in the face of new, often restrictive, world markets to lessen their sense of economic isolation and vulnerability and to cut their country's large overseas debt. And serious environmental problems have, like those of the economy,...
